Tim Luscombe

I am delighted to write this letter of recommendation for Tim with whom I have worked with on a number of projects over the recent years.

Tim is a writer of real talent and dedication with the tools of the trade to match. Working with him as a director of theatre I have found him a complete delight and inspiration to work with. He is a rare combination of a writer who has a unique and authentic voice with a pragmatist who understands that things beyond his control [time, budgets etc] will always shape a piece he has written for production. This is no small part due to his experience as a director of repute that has given him this significant appreciation of his chosen medium.

Apart from his original work, Tim is a skilled adapter of existing work and we had great success together with his adaptation of Jane Austen's MANSFIELD PARK for the Theatre Royal Bury St Edmunds. This production toured the UK extensively and highly successfully in 2012/13. Tim managed in just over two hours to encapsulate the narrative and drama of the novel into a wonderful and moving piece of theatre which audiences responded to with great enthusiasm – no mean feat considering the word count of the original.

We are currently working further projects and I have absolutely no hesitation in recommending Tim as a writer and director of quality theatre.

Yours faithfully
